Rose Weekend The first weekend in March. Friday, March 5th – Sunday, March 7th. We'll have sales all three days. Seminars on Saturday, March 6th at 10:30am and Sunday, March 7th at 11am. Rose selection, planting and rose care will be discussed. Drawings for free roses and supplies will be held after each seminar! Stop by for your FREE 2010 Wight's Rose List, rose care handouts and expert advice!

Rose Tips and Ideas

Include Hybrid Teas in your cutting garden! Their shapely blooms sitting atop long single stems look beautiful in arrangements and in the garden.

Floribundas are excellent roses for landscaping, as background shrubs, planted in masses, as hedges and in borders. They are more compact than hybrid teas and produce profuse clusters of blooms through the summer months.

Grandifloras produce large blooms of clusters and single blooms. The plant itself is usually taller in habit.

Shrub roses are free-blooming with differing flower sizes and forms, broadly varying in mature size but have a full bushy attractive habit. They have good disease resistance, hardiness, and are mostly grown on their own roots.

Don't forget that roses do well in containers. They make a great impact on patios and decks. Tree roses can be underplanted with blooming annuals for continuous color. Planted in an urn type planter, this would be a very elegant look.

Roses don't have to be in a formal rose bed. They mix well with shrubs and fit in nicely in perennial borders.

AARS - All American Rose Selections

An organization of rose producers who evaluate new rose varieties across the United States. This 2 year process of evaluation in all climatic conditions brings you only the top performers. The AARS symbol is used throughout our list to identify past AARS Winners distinguishing those roses that are judged superior in color, foliage, fragrance and resistance to adverse growing conditions and disease.

Jackson Perkins has created a group of roses exclusively available to Independent Nurseries and Garden Centers like Wight's. These include 2010 Ultimate Series Roses, the Rose of the Year and the Floribunda of the Year.

Own Root Roses are field grown plants grown from cuttings rather than budded/grafted onto root stock. These 1 year old bare root plants require the same care as other bare root roses. Own root plants tend to be more winter hardy and do not develop annoying root stock suckers.
